

Advisory Service Summary

What do we offer?

IT Strategy is developed through the identification and prioritisation of objectives, principles, and usage of technology within your organisation.

Effective IT strategy development needs to not only consider your IT infrastructure, people, processes, and systems but also with consideration of organisational complexities, stakeholder expectations and any legislative/regulatory requirements.

The Blackbird Advisory team take a consultative approach to work collaboratively with businesses to meet their organisational needs. Backed by a wealth of experience across different sectors and with a broad network of partners; we can ensure that best practice strategy development is followed.

Supported by the technical knowledge of the wider Blackbird IT team, we can help you develop:

- Strategic Roadmaps
- Business Continuity Plans
- Incident Management Plans
- Disaster Recovery Plans
- IT Policies and Procedures

The initial engagement

At our FREE initial engagement, we will discuss with you:

- Your specific business requirements
- Your organisations strategic direction
- Any known strategic challenges
- Any opportunities on the horizon

Based on the initial meeting, the information discussed and the scope of your requirements, an engagement proposal and quote will then be provided for your review.

What sets us apart

Being part of a Managed Service Provider places us in a position to not only offer strategic consulting services backed by technical knowledge, but we can also offer the engineering services to implement technical requirements to meet your strategic goals.

What next

We work collaboratively with clients to achieve an optimal balance between time, cost, and quality of outcomes. If you are looking for assistance with IT Strategy Development and like the sound of how we work, then get in touch!

Who we are

Blackbird IT exists to facilitate and empower our staff and customers to realise their potential.

We strategically implement technology in organisations across the country, delivering precise IT recommendations to suit users, industry, budget, and goals.

You're after great business results. We're out to help you achieve it. We design and implement key technology solutions and align their benefits to business outcomes such as productivity, compliance, and risk mitigation.

Our expertise

We are resourced with highly experienced advisors, engineers, IT specialists, and project managers.

They have extensive experience with continuous improvement processes, regulatory compliance, and risk management in high regulated and fast passed industries.

Our greatest resources are the expertise of our people, the customer first culture in which we operate and our core values that our team embodies.
